MIKE HEALEY

Thompson's Gallery are pleased to present a new solo exhibition by renowned Scottish painter, Mike Healey.

Healey's latest paintings are a riotous celebration of nature's unfettered palette. Painting from familiar territory, Healey presents the natural world surrounding a sympathetic and appreciative human existence. Healey displays creative superiority that sets him apart from imitators and amateurs alike; his maturity in approach and execution commands further viewing and grants him the critical renown that he is heralded for.

Healey's artistic passion has, in this exhibition, led him to broaden his subject matter and extend his glorious catalogue of works by painting the festivities and events surrounding the Queen's Diamond Jubilee. Both topical and engaging, these paintings strike a chord with the national sensibility and enhance the sense of occasion. With this body of work Healey has never seemed so relevant. Both Healey and supporters of the national event are invited to celebrate this seminal moment.

Healey studied under John Cunningham at Glasgow School of Art, winning the Haldane Travelling Scholarship and the Leverhulme Travelling Scholarship. He was appointed senior lecturer at Glasgow School of Art in the 1980's and worked there until 1997. Healey was awarded a personal professorial chair in art and design at Lincoln University in 2003, where he continues to teach.

This exhibition represents a long standing relationship between Mike Healey and Thompson's Gallery that has its origins in Healey's first exhibition with us in June 2000. We invite you to view this exhibition and share our delight in Healey's work.
